A CARD OF THANKS.

We desire through the columns of the Record-Press to try, as best we can, to express our thanks to the vast number of friends of our dear husband and father for their help and sympathy in this the darkest hour of our lives. We want to thank you for the high tribute you paid his memory, you made us feel that we were not alone in our grief. That while our hearts were all but broken and our heads bowed in sorrow, great tears of love for him and sympathy for us were falling thick and fast from hundreds of eyes. And this recognition of the great love you bore him and the high tribute you paid his memory utterly disqualifies us for thanking you as you so richly deserve. But this token of your love and esteem for him has made the sun to shine brighter in our home, so suddenly deprived of a husband's tender care and a father's blessing and through our tears we again beg to thank you over again for all you have done to lighten our burden. May God shower his richest blessings upon all of you in this life and ultimately reward you with a home in Heaven.

To those who contributed such beautiful floral offerings we feel deeply grateful. They were lovely and spoke plainer than words, the words of consolation they were meant to convey. We also want to thank Bro. Miller and others of our friends for their many words of comfort and for the high tribute his knowledge of the life of our dear departed prompted him to utter. All of these friends together with all they have said and done, make us to know God is a present help in time of trouble.

Now with a love that will last into Eternity we are

Yours very truly,

Mrs. J. O. DIXON.
MIRA DIXON.
GALEN DIXON.

A. B. TINSLEY PASSES TO HIS REWARD.

After Weeks of Suffering—Loved And Respected By All Who Knew Him.

INTERMENT AT KUTTAWA LAST FRIDAY.

On last Thursday morning March 17th at 12:30 o'clock the soul of A. B. Tinsley passed into Eternity. Several hours before his death his faithful wife and the loyal friends who had been watching for the end for so long, discovered that he was quietly sinking to rest and when his life went out into the great beyond it was as if he had fallen asleep.

Mr. Tinsley was stricken with paralysis five years ago, since which time he had considered himself a great burden on his wife and friends and while at times he was able to be about his business he never rallied and as the repeated strokes would come he gradually grew worse until during his last few weeks of suffering the pain threw him into convulsion at times which seemed to impair his mind.

He was prominent in the business world and among business men, having at one time owned the noted mines at Mayfield and associated with Mr. S. W. Cooley in mineral mines here and elsewhere. Among his holdings now is 1,200 acres of valuable land near Yelville, Arkansas. In his prime he was one among the best and most influential business men and by them looked up to and respected.

Deceased was 51 years old at the time of his death and was a member of the Elk and I. O. O. F. organizations. He had been reared in Indiana until manhood, when he located first in Paducah then Kuttawa and subsequently Marion where he made one of our best citizens. The remains were shipped to Kuttawa on Friday where the last tribute was paid his memory by Rev. Thompson of the Presbyterian church. He leaves a wife and three children who have the sympathy of the citizens of Marion in their deep grief.

BASE BALL.

As the birds begin to chirp, the base ball fans begin to realize that something will take place at our park soon. Our friend Mr. P. S. Maxwell has been busy setting out trees and getting every thing in shape for another year's work and pleasure without base ball our town would practically be without any life, so we must rally to the cause and have the best nine in Western Kentucky with Cooperrider and Gossage in the box all other teams would look very small to us indeed.

Hon. J. F. Portor, the honored Representative of Webster county, returned from Frankfort Friday.

THE QUALITY HARDWARE OF THE 'PENNYRILE'

THE FENCE WITH A CURVE

Do you know what that means?" The "Tension Curve" is a necessity to a good fence, giving it elasticity and every contraction due to cold or expansion due to heat or sudden and severe pressure is promptly taken care of, the fence remaining in normal position at all times and under all circumstances.

The American Fence is the most popular fence on the market, and its many advantages over inferior wire fences makes it the cheapest. It is hog and pig tight, horse and mule high and possesses full strength.

Any good improvement adds to the value of the farm, and nothing more than the American Fence adds to the beauty thereof. Good fences and lots of them go a long way toward solving the question of bigger profits, and in buying fences it pays to get the BEST.

We handle every grade of this fence and you will always find the prices right.

PRICE SELLS OUR HARNESS.

We have the fullest line of harness in Western Kentucky. Every article in this line is the best money can buy, is made from the best grades of leather, and our prices please the most economical.

Our bridles are made of heavy leather, are durable and easily adjusted. We have a number of assortments in both curb and leather bits and of any desired weight.

We have a full line of wool and hair padded horse collars made from heavy oak tanned leather which are sure to please you.

CLEAN SEED AT SHORT PRICES

Seed sowing time is here and you will want good pure seed for sowing and we call your attention to the fact that we have every seed adapted to this climate.

We have blue grass, orchard grass, red top, rye, fescue, clover and oats.

The farmer must depend upon quality when it comes to buying seed. Nothing but the best is any good for us to use for a poor grade is worthless. Besides he has less time, labor and price paid thereon. We have the best.

A BUGGY BUILT FOR EASE

For ease, comfort, durability and economy. The new Delker Buggy is excellent.

The front of all springs are used in the manufacture of this carriage, pressed plates are carefully graded, squared and drawn out to French points, giving a great deal of elasticity and making it a most comfortable carriage.

The foundation of a good buggy is the wheels. The makers of the new Delker Buggy are very careful in the selection of the very best of tough young hickory beams and spokes. Hubs are of rock elm as hard as mahogany, glued together by Hydrostatic press to make the strongest wheel possible.

Every portion of this carriage is securely braced, reinforced and strengthened making it the only buggy to withstand the rigors of a rough country.

No other carriage of equal quality can be found on the market at equal or less. A "Genuine Delker" is the best buy time. We have fifty styles and prices are low enough to suit the pocket of all.

YOUR SATISFACTION IS OUR SUCCESS

SIGNS OF EXCELLENCE ARE WRITTEN ON OUR WAGONS

The wagons we sell have a world wide reputation. 'Tis said: "The sun never sets on the Studebaker." While they cost a few dollars more than the ordinary wagon, everybody knows they are far better for they are the wagons that last. They are the wagons with a reputation which they have won upon their true merits.

The Studebaker wagon is made by men who know what a good wagon is, and the point they have reached along this line is near perfection.

It is impossible for us to give the many good qualities of the Studebaker, but ask you to make full investigation of the merits of this wagon before buying.

We also have the agency for the celebrated Milburn wagon, and have a number on hand.

SADDLES

Let us saddle your horse with one of our high grade saddles and you'll soon know the real pleasure of horse-back riding. We have an unequalled variety to select from any of which would add to the looks of your horse.

Our "Texas" saddle is a well built saddle and is quite popular with all stock men. It has heavy steel fork tree, simply unbreakable, fits the horse's back and your pocket book.

We have paints and varnishes of any color, and spring is the best time to use it.

VULCAN PLOWS PLEASE

To the farmer who wants a good plow we call 2000 after the 1900 model of the Vulcan. Every part is made of the best material and finished and made to stand and do first class work with the least amount of wear. The mold board is made so that it will not need breaking to the extreme end. The fact that it holds the furrow is a great advantage. The steel is charred iron, with patinaed surface, and is very hard. The blade edge is well sharpened. The mold board, best wear part, is made of the best steel. Do not forget the Vulcan plow, it is the best. It ploughs better, more easily, and costs less, and cost no more than the others.

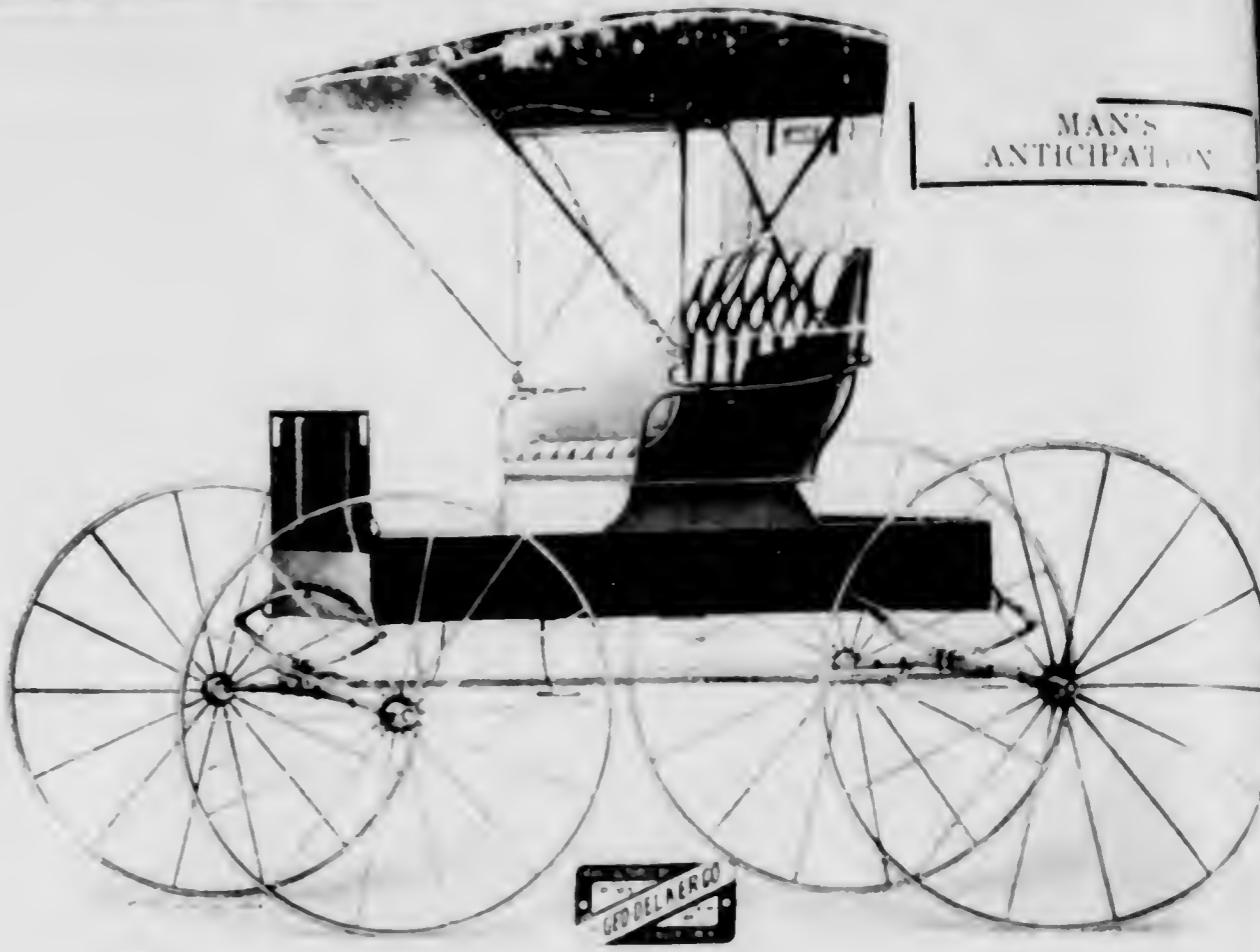

McGraw's plow is from 10 to 15% inclusive.

PERFECTLY SATISFIED!

15 gallons of water heated to the point of boiling, while breakfast is cooking. When water gets too hot reservoir can be moved away from fire by shifting the lever shown.

In Memorium.

On Sunday March sixth, Mexico and vicinity was shocked by the sad news of the death of Willis Crider, who was drowned near Steel, Missouri, where he had gone about 18 months ago in search of employment. The remains arrived on the 3 o'clock train Tuesday and were met by a large number of relatives and friends, who followed the remains to the Hill cemetery near Fredonia, where the interment took place Wednesday at noon.

The deceased was born and raised near here, was well and favorably known, he was 18 years of age and on account of absence was a suspended member of the F. E. & O. U. of A. He leaves a widowed mother and six brothers to mourn their loss.

He died as the golden sun of life was arching past the glories of the dawn, and the shadows were still bending toward the west. In the sparkling morning tide, when hope rode on fancy's wings toward ambition's goal; when the great artist was blending colors in the opening rose of buoyant life, the cold hand of the universal avenger smote athwart his brow, and he fell asleep with the multitudes that have gone before.

While yet in love with life and raptured with the world, he passed to the eternal portals. Perhaps in the happiest, sunniest hours of all the voyage, while eager winds were kissing every sail, his barque was dashed against the unseen rock, and his name enrolled with the dead.

While we have buried this body, yet it is not without hope. We have faith in Him who conquered the grave and gave to the world the Golden Rule, which has become the chief corner stone of our beloved Order.

Only a dream, Only a dream. And glory beyond the dark stream.

How peaceful the slumber, how happy the waking.

For death is only a dream.

The Girl From the Effete East

By ARTHUR DENSMORE

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

BARRINGTON was completing his first year of practice when Theodore Tuppenheim arrived in Knuckleville. Mr. Tuppenheim was selling stock in the Charitable Gold Minuteman company at 5 cents per share, price to advance to 10 cents at the end of thirty days. Incidentally he found time to foster in Barrington's bosom the spirit of discontent which ten months' fruitless waiting for clients had engendered. If he were a clever, clean-cut young man like Barrington, did Barrington know what he'd do? He would fritter away his time in a moshacked New England hamlet where people looked down on a fellow just because they'd known him all his life and could remember when he was little shaved and went with patches on his trousers. No, sir. He'd just gather together his earthly possessions and take the first train for Gilt Gulch, Nev. There was the coming town, there lay the opportunity for an able young man to rise. No reason in the world why he should not be in the United States Senate within five years. That would be coming some! Well, everybody and everything came some in that country. Why, sir, where the thriving city of Gilt Gulch now stood there had been less than two years since caught but sagebrush and alkali. And now look at it—just look at it! Six thousand inhabitants and more coming by every train! Simply couldn't get horses up fast enough for 'em. Had to camp out in tents. And every blamed one of 'em was making money. Why, sir, you couldn't find a bootblack in Gilt Gulch who was worth less than fifty thousand!

This vision of wealth and political prominence was quite too much for Barrington. He adjusted his affairs in Knuckleville, which was no very difficult matter, took tearful leave of numerous relatives and of a certain pretty damsel, who was not yet a relative, but had rashly promised to become one whenever Barrington's income should suffice for the support of two persons, and bled himself to Gilt Gulch, promising to send souvenir post cards from every mounthly he passed through on the way.

Now, underneath the lurid exaggeration with which Mr. Theodore Tuppenheim had clothed his narrative of the rise of Gilt Gulch there lay a respectable substratum of truth, and the confirmation of Barrington's intentions appearance with certain letters of introduction to persons financially prominent in Gilt Gulch, while Mr. Tuppenheim professed for him, resulted in his speedily establishing a thriving practice. For the most part it was work in connection with the location of mining claims, and, besides numerous fees in cash, Barrington acquired several claims of his own, which he did not profitably.

At first, at the end of a year Barrington had waxed so prosperous as to be invited to the party of the Knuckleville Weekly Times, the editors of which, it is understood, that young Mr. Barrington, to whom the reporters would never refer, the Times had predicted a brilliant career when he hung out his shingle in Knuckleville, was now one of the leaders in the west, and the other village maidens were openly jealous of Susie Cutler, whose good fortune it was to be married to a country doctor.

Bat Susie herself had no illusions. She even refused to permit Barrington to come east for the marriage. Her childhood lessons of thrift and economy had taken deep root in her mind, and she would not, she said, have the price of a round trip railroad ticket thrown away. If Barrington felt that he must spend the money, to him buy a cabinet organ or a second-hand piano for the front parlor. They would be married in their own house at Gilt Gulch and after that take a little wedding trip to Colorado Springs or maybe Denver. Perhaps, being prudent damsel, Susie desired to have a glance at Gilt Gulch before she committed herself irrevocably. At any rate, matters had been thus arranged, and the date set for the wedding being but two days away and Susie due to arrive that afternoon, Barrington was in the state of exstasy appropriate to such circumstances. It was in this moment of supreme happiness that misfortune befall him.

The work Barrington had been doing requires to be performed with great accuracy; otherwise it is not only valueless, but may be the occasion of great loss to the client. Now, it is possible that Barrington possessed genius. People who have that, you know, are apt to be careless as to the details. Perhaps it was merely that, being deeply in love, he could not concentrate his mind upon his work. However that may be, Hartford, the attorney whose office was next to Barrington's, had discovered in the course of an investigation of the records that Barrington had filed documents containing serious errors. He spoke to Barrington about it in a perfectly friendly way. Barrington received his kindly admonitions with a contempt which he was at no pains to disguise. Why should he pay heed to the remarks of a man who wore baggy trousers and long hair and played faro, to say nothing of becoming intoxicated now and then? He knew well enough what inspired these critical observations. Hartford was jealous of the prosperity which Barrington had so rapidly attained. Let me step aside, said the master of Barrington to himself, and see what is in leading to sober life, as he did.

Feeling that he had overestimated Barrington, Hartford confined his communications with Hartford to a curt "How are you?" and avoided by a barely perceptible nod when they chanced to meet. It was with a good deal of surprise, therefore, that Hartford, glancing up from his rather dilapidated desk as he heard the door open, perceived Barrington entering his office. One had not to look at Barrington twice to be convinced that he was badly frightened. His eyes, which ordinarily regarded those about him with an air of easy toleration, were wide with terror, and his well-chiseled features, customarily wearing an air of placid content, were now white and drawn. His manner toward Hartford was no longer supine. All his carefully constructed attitude of dignity had vanished.

"You've been in this part of the country longer than I have, Hartford," said he. "I want your advice as a friend, you know."

Hartford nodded and withdrew his pipe from his lips.

"So you'll be strictly 'What's this?'

"Why, you see," said Barrington, "it seems to me that the papers for Jim Bushy on that last mining claim of his I made a slight error. I have been doing a large business, you know, Hartford—a very large business, and it was inevitable that I should make a mistake occasionally. It seems that some unscrupulous persons have taken advantage of this purely technical slip and have jumped Bushy's claim, and he is very much exercised about it."

"I should think he might be," Hartford observed.

"Yes," repeated Barrington, "he is much exercised and quite unreasonable about it. He came into my office a few moments ago and demanded an explanation. Of course I couldn't tell him anything except that it was just a mistake such as any man might make, and he said I was lying to him. He said I was too suave to make a fool out of a claim that would have made him rich. I argued with him the best I could, but it didn't budge him. He said he didn't see that it made much difference, anyhow, whether I was a fool or a knave, because either way I hadn't any right to live, and he wound up by saying that he'd just go down to the Jolly Dog and get a few drinks to put him in the right frame of mind and then he'd come back and reduce the membership of the Gilt Gulch bar by one."

It is significant of Hartford's broad and tolerant temperament that he did not remind Barrington that he had previously predicted such a catastrophe as had now befallen. Nevertheless a slight glimmer of amusement stung across his face.

"So you want my advice, do you?" he asked.

"I should appreciate it very much," said Barrington.

"Well, you shall have it," said Hartford ironically, rapping the bowl of his pipe against the heel of his shoe. "If Jim Bushy were out gunning for me and I couldn't show any better than you etc., and I had a comfortable little sum saved, as you have, and there were a pretty girl in New England who didn't know any better than to love me, as she does you, I'd go right on the half past 2 train and I wouldn't hurry back."

"But the trouble is," Barrington explained, "Susie Miss Cutler, that I will be here on the train that goes to 2:30. The train pass on the first siding out, you know. The fact is we are to be married day after tomorrow at noon. You'll pardon my outfitting to send you an invitation, won't you? It was quite unintentional. I've been so busy."

"Ole!" Hartford broke in with a derisive wave of his arm, "you needn't apologize. It's just one of those little mistakes a busy man is bound to make every now and then. I haven't Bushy's disposition. I'll forgive you."

Then Hartford looked at his watch and found that it was twenty minutes past 2.

"You'll have to move lively, my boy," he said, "keep your eye open for the 2:30. If it isn't, walk over to Sand Hill and take the next one there."

"But about Susie," Barrington remonstrated.

"I'll tell you what," growled Hartford. "That's the only leave I'll give you. Go back to the station master, telling him to go back to Colorado Springs and wait for the 2:30. Don't you worry about the girl. I'll send a slightly delayed telegram to an expedition funeral Harry up to w. You're just about thin to nothing."

As he slipped down the main street of Gilt Gulch on his way to the station, Barrington caught a glimpse of Jim Bushy's gaunt profile as he stood at the bar of the Jolly Dog. His back toward the entrance, Barrington's head bent, heart reeling as he reflected that the ten mile walk to Sand Hill would now be necessary. It was just twenty-eight minutes past 2 when he reached the station. He gave the necessary instructions concerning Susie to the station master and rushed out upon the platform. But the train which had stopped at Gilt Gulch was not yet ready to depart. A freight car had left the rails, blocking the track. Fifteen minutes passed, and still the obstruction remained. FRANKFORT LETTER CON- TAINS INTERESING NEWS

Written By Our Worthy Representative, Marion F. Pogue, Who Works For The Interests Of His Constituent.

DELAYED FROM LAST WEEK

Frankfort, Ky., March 12, 1910. DEAR CALMES:-

This has been a busy week in both houses. Many measures have been passed and in the two remaining days, as each bill that now passed, came through the other House and will be a law if approved by the governor.

The interest bearing warrant bill, which originated in the Rules committee of the House has passed the Senate and will become a law. It is the only measure to relieve the treasury which will pass and the governor can hardly afford to veto it. But it is current talk that he will do so, and will call an extra session to force a bond issue.

The Senate passed the Bond issue bill and defeating similar bills twice; but House Rules committee have put it to sleep to await the "resurrection morn."

The big banks, the liquor interests and people who got through appropriations or their salaries raised are clamoring for a bond issue for different reasons: The big banks and trust companies want to scoop up the entire issue; if bonds are floated; because they can not control all the warrants, most of which will come to the small banks in the country, or will be held by individuals into hands they happen to fall. The liquor people fear that an extra session might include a consideration of the county Unit bill, and the fellow who has landed an appropriation or a salary grab are threatened with a veto and an extra session if they don't get busy with their members and get the bonds through.

Those who are best posted claim that there will be no extra session and that the governor is only "bluffing," because taking his figures quoted in one of his veto messages at the close of the session two years ago, and the figures given out by Treasure Farley now, we are in a better financial condition than we were then, by over half a million dollars, saying nothing about the quarter of a million spent in "exterminating" the night riders. The appropriations last session were almost two and one half million, this he chopped down one million, but this year after all the "cusing" this session of the legislature has had, no one believes the appropriations made will exceed one half million dollars, and with the increase in the valuation of the States property it does not look like an emergency for twenty year bonds.

The Senate has passed an educational bill which is more radical than the Sullivan law under which we are now operating the schools. It calls for more centralization of power and takes many thousand dollars from the school fund to pay new officials created to do work which others are already paid to do.

Those at the head of the great educational trust which seems to dominate the Senate say we must take this law or nothing. It has no chance to pass the Houses and will not even be considered; they tell us that the House bill we sent over to the Senate will not be considered, so it seems that the Senate has destroyed all hope for any relief to the small schools of the State by refusing to accede to the request made by almost unanimous vote of the House in passing Bill 461.

The so called Good Roads Bills have all been laid gently to sleep by the Rules committee of the House. The more they were discussed the less friends they had. The laity of the House are slow in accepting any bill on which the best lawyers of the legislature, and the State for that matter, can not agree to or the meaning of hardly a single section.

For the first time the Governors veto has been over ridden. He vetoed the bill requiring the names of persons in any pool to be recorded in the county clerks office. It was promptly set aside by a vote of 77 to 11 in the House and 30 to 5 in the Senate.

Senator Paynter addressed both Houses of the General Assembly this week. He is fixing up his political fences to keep "Our Ollie" from breaking into his senatorial pasture. He spoke chiefly on the income tax proposal.

A bill has passed both houses allowing persons over sixty years old the right to decline jury service.

Senator Catlett's bill allowing pay to person summoned for jury service and not accepted has passed both houses. The Senate Bill authorizing the examination of State banks semi-annually will become a law. It is one of the most important measures of the session.

Will write you at length when session is over and give resume of the entire work.

Yours to save,
MARION F. POGUE.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a hollow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine or known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

THE BIG EGG LAYING STRAIN

Why they are the largest layers, is because they have proven to be the biggest layers that crystals have been entered in. They lay more and weight more than any other breed, is why they sell for more than any other breed, five birds setting for $7.50. Who ever heard of any other strain that would do this?

We have birds from this strain that exceed one and a half in the poultry show.

If any one wanting the Kellertstrass stock, call on or write me. I have two pens, Pen No. 1, $2.50 for 15 eggs, Pen No. 2, $1.50 for 15 eggs. Never were such low prices quoted on Crystal White Orpington eggs before and therefore your time to buy.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and easily, and in old age many elderly men suffer not only from the usual trouble of constipation, but from indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness, after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but may be painful, and something mild will do the trick just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do not answer good and best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Balsom of Sycamore. It is a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting medicine that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money, send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will kindly send you a sample free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of rheumatism, liver and bowel trouble and families like Mr. G. F. Wicks of Sycamore, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culver of 35 N. North Main street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail.

For other requests the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
